

From: "SM - Times, Times Feedback"
Date: 27 November 2015 15:43:51 GMT
To: [REDACTED]
Cc: [REDACTED]
Subject: Complaint to The Times

Dear [REDACTED]

Thank you for forwarding the letter from Mr Ismail. The headline of this article was the subject of a correction, published in the paper and online on November 26, as follows:

We reported the findings of a Survation poll of 1,000 British Muslims (News, Nov 24). Asked "How do you feel about young Muslims who leave the UK to join fighters in Syria?", 14 per cent of respondents expressed "some sympathy" and 5 per cent "a lot of sympathy". The survey did not distinguish between those who go to fight for Islamic State and those who join other factions in Syria, and it did not ask about attitudes towards Isis itself. Our headline, "One in five British Muslims has sympathy for Isis", was misleading in failing to reflect this.

Yours sincerely,
Rose Wild
Feedback editor
The Times
thetimes.co.uk/feedback
@TimesFeedback